run wild in the forests, after a few generations, lose all traces of their domestication, and are physically different from their tame originals.

It is not natural for a cow, any more than for any other female animals, to give milk when she has no young to nourish. The permanent production of milk is a modified animal function, produced by an artificial habit for several generations. In Columbia, the practice of milking cows having been laid aside, the natural state of the functions tinues only during the sucking of the calf. and is only an occasional phenomenon .-If the calf dies the milk ceases to flow.

The barking of dogs is an acquired hereditary instinct, supposed to have originated in an attempt to imitate the human voice. Wild dogs, and domestic breeds becoming wild never bark, but howl. Cats which so disturb an attempt to imitate the human voice. Wild civilized communities by their midnight "caterwaul," in the wild state in South America, are quite silent.

The hair of the negro is not wool, but a curled and twisted hair. The distinction between hair and wool is clearly revealed by the micrescope.

The dark races have less nervous sensibility than the white. They are not subject to on the 6th day of April, 1859, at 12 o'clack, M., one nervous diseases. They sleep sound in undivided third of a WHARF PROPERTY and gical operations much better than the white people.

A certain species of fungus has been known to attain the size of a gourd in one night; and it is calculated that the cellules, of which it is composed, must amount to forty-seven thousand millions. If it grew in twelve hours this would give four thousand millions each
